PEKING GETS $7,500,000 LOAN, ENOUGH FOR NEW YEAR

Five Million From Salt Gabelle Surplus, Rest From Banks

JAP LOAN LAGS

Application For $90,000,000 Held Up Because Of Strife

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, January 11.—In an interview today with foreign press representatives, the Cabinet announced that the Central Government, for the purpose of tiding over the new year, has made arrangements to obtain a total of $7,500,000, of which $5,000,000 is to come out of the salt gabelle surplus, $1,000,000 from the Banks of China and Communications respectively, and $500,000 from various native banks of local provinces.

The Cabinet is of opinion that this sum will be sufficient to pass the present year, though it is the irreducible minimum.

Tokio, January 11.—With reference to the proposal recently made by the Chinese Government to the New Consortium for a loan of $90,000,000, it is reported that, as the political condition in China has become more disturbed than ever, the attitude of both Great Britain and the United States has to all appearances not yet been decided and that Japan also appears to have decided to take exception to the proposal as a result of negotiations with Japanese financiers on the ground (1) that the present state of affairs in China is more restless than ever, (2) that the Liang Cabinet is unpopular with the people, and that outcry against the proposed loan is being raised in the district of Shanghai and (3) that such being the case, whatever explanation the Chinese Government may give there is fear of the money thus raised being employed for military uses only which would encourage internal disturbances.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, January 11.—The reported instability of the Chinese administration is said to be prejudicing the Government's attitude towards China's application for a loan, which is now being considered. No decision has been reached but it is believed that it will be unfavorable unless China evinces a better spirit in carrying out military reform and other peaceful developments.

ALL JAPAN WILL HONOR OKUMA AT NATIONAL RITES

Funeral To Be Held January 17 At Hibiya Park, Tokio

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Jan. 11.—The late Marquis Okuma's funeral will be observed on January 17 at Hibiya Park in the center of the city. In order to give expression to the nation's feeling in the loss of one whose services to the country had been as a leader of public opinion outside the Government rather than a statesman it has been decided that the ceremonies should not be of state but should take what is entirely new to Japan of an informal and national character, in which all classes are expected numerously to participate. The students of the Waseda women's universities with which Marquis Okuma was connected will escort the cortege from the house.

The press this morning pays a warm tribute to the high qualities of the services of the deceased to the State and the people. It is believed that his death will in no way affect the political situation.

Veronal poisoning was the direct cause of Miss Crosby's death. Until recently if was believed by the authorities that there was a possibility that Miss Crosby took an overdose of the drug. Miss Crosby was found dying in her studio apartment. It is said that she left two letters which would explain her death and which were not turned over to the police. Miss Crosby, who was twenty-three, was well known in the film world.

SHIPPING BOARD MEN GOING HOME; PERRY DECORATED

M. E. Merriman, Secretary Of Office Here, Finishes Three Year Job

Mr. M. A. Perry, special representative of the Shipping Board in the Far East, who has been closely indentified with the building of vessels for the shipping board in Japan and particularly with the building of the four steamers turned out in Shanghai by the Kiangnan Dock and Engineering works, is leaving Shanghai on Sunday with Mr. M. E Merriman who has been secretary of the shipping board office here.

Messrs. Perry and Merriman have been in the Far East for the past three years and in recognition of the services given by Mr. Perry in connection with the building of the four steamers here the decoration of the third order of the Wen Hu was conferred upon him yesterday by the Chinese Government.

The vessels built in Shanghai are the Mandarin, the Celestial, the Oriental and the Cathay and the last of these, the Cathay sailed for San Francisco about ten days ago to be delivered to the shipping board. The three ships that preceded the Cathay have been pronounced by American shipping experts among the best of the hundreds built for the shipping board.

20,000 Affected In S. African Strike

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 10.—The strike on the Rand gold mines which began last night, was declared by the strikers to be a struggle by white labor to avert annihilation.

The Chamber of Mines, on the contrary, asserts that failing a revision of the wage rates and working conditions so as to permit the employment of more semi-skilled colored labor, 24 out of 39 producing gold mines must close down.

Johannesburg, Jan. 10.—The strike is in full operation in all gold mines in which 20,000 men are affected and also at the Victoria Falls Power-station where, however there is still sufficient labor to produce one-third of the usual power for essential services.

IRISH CABINET NAMED, WITH GRIFFITH AS PRESIDENT

De Valera Supporters Refuse To Make Choice Unanimous

TROOPS TO LEAVE

All British Forces To Be Evacuated, Except From Ulster

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 10.—In the Dail Eireann today a motion of Commandant Collins elected Mr. Arthur Griffith President, and a motion of Mr. Griffith was adopted appointing a cabinet, including Commandant Collins as Minister of Finance, Mr. Gavan Duffy as Minister of Foreign Affairs, Mr. E. J. Duggan as Minister of Home Affairs, and Mr. Mulcahy as Minister of Defence.

Moving the election of Mr. Griffith as President, Commandant Collins said that the Irish nation was a ship without a captain and that they must form a stable government in order to prevent the country from drifting towards anarchy.

Mr. Griffith said that his policy would be to give effect to the Dail Eireann's approval of the treaty and to use its resources to keep order until the central election for the Free State Parliament had decided acceptance of the Treaty rights.

The Dail Eireann has adjourned until February 14th.

(Special To The China Press)

London, Jan. 10.—The London Times says that all British forces will evacuate Ireland, with the exception of Ulster, as soon as possible. Fifty thousand troops will leave the country.

President Griffith announced today that the Dail Eireann would continue to function as the government of Ireland until the Irish Free State Government was put into operation.

At the closing session of the Dail a message was read from the Vatican in which the Pope rejoiced that an agreement had been reached.

COTTON PLANTERS ERECT MONUMENT TO INSECT ENEMY

Boll Weevil Taught Them To Diversify Crops, Thus Avoiding Ruin

(Reuter's Service)

Enterprise, Ala., Jan. 9.—The first monument to the boll weevil—the greatest enemy of cotton—has just been erected here.

Coffee county planters expressing "profound appreciation" for the ravages of the cotton enemy, have erected a beautiful bronze fountain in the heart of the business district here. It is a monument to the foe that conquered the county, it is explained, and then pointed the way towards prosperity and new hopes.

Growers of cotton who fathered the erection of the monument to the weevil, declared that the cotton enemy had been a blessing in disguise in that it had brought about diversification of crops and thereby established a new era in the South.

The inscription on the fountain reads:

"In Profound Appreciation of the Boll Weevil and What It Has Done as the Herald of Prosperity This Monument Is Erected by the Citizens of Enterprise, Coffee County, Alabama."

The one-crop South has become as a result of the terrible ravages of the weevil, an agricultural country which in the future will become self-supporting according to the coffee county planters, who have adopted the slogan, "A Sow to a Plow." The disease of cotton that threatened to ruin the South, these farmers declare, has been effectively checked by the advent of the weevil, and new conditions brought about which mean future growth and agricultural prosperity.

NAVY MEN FIRM IN DECISION TO HOLD SALT TAX

The decision of local Chinese navy commanders to seize the salt revenue of the Hun River and Huai Lake district because of failure to receive their salaries and their despatching of cruisers and gunboats to the tax collecting stations has created a stir among the naval authorities in Peking, Admiral Li Ting-hsin sending an emissary to Shanghai to try and compromise the matter.

Reports received here yesterday were to the effect that seven warcraft are at present lying at Shinchu, near Yangchow, to see that the salt revenue gets into navy hands.

Tseng Pao-tsing, judge of the naval court, was the representative selected by the minister to consult with local navy officials and try to bring about a reconsideration of the move. He interviewed representatives of the First, Second and Training Squadrons—the division which acted—but was unable to alter the situation, being told that unless all back wages are paid before Chinese New Year the warships will sail for other points to seize salt revenue.

The report was afloat, from various sources, here yesterday that the decision to seize the salt taxes is a result of a plan fostered by a clique of militarists to further discredit the Peking government.

SYNDICATE OF 5 NATIONS TO UNSCRAMBLE EUROPE, PLAN

British, French, Italian, Belgian And Japanese Named

TO DRAW SCHEME

France Gives Assurance That She Will Abstain From Aggression

(Reuter's Service)

Cannes, Jan. 11.—The Conference has approved the plan for an international syndicate for the economic restoration of Europe and has appointed a committee consisting of two British and two French, and one Italian, one Belgian and one Japanese to work out the details of scheme, and to proceed with the organisation of the syndicate as quickly as possible and thereafter report to the Genoa conference any further recommendations.

Cannes, Jan. 11.—Japan and the British Dominions are also being invited to the Genoa conference.

A hitch appears to have occurred in the reparations agreement, and the discussions thereanent had to be postponed till tomorrow pending the receipt of a reply from the French cabinet which is reported to be displaying hostility to the agreement.

This view is supported by the French newspapers, one which declares that the Treaty of Versailles is being cut up piecemeal "in carnival setting and to the strains of a jazz band." It is understood that Italy wishes inclusion in the Franco-British pact the draft of which has been telegraphed to London for the approval of the Cabinet but it is not likely that her wishes will be granted since the object of the pact is to guarantee France against German aggression.

Although the terms of the agreement are a close secret, it is stated that France has given a definite assurance that she will follow no aggressive policy.

TANGIER NEW PROBLEM

Paris, Jan. 11.—The latest rock encountered by the Entente is Tangier in connection with which according to the Cannes correspondent of the Temps, Great Britain has adopted the Spanish point of view and is seeking to make France accept it.

The paper adds that Great Britain insists on linking this problem with the pact, from which it concludes that matters are not going too smothly.

It is pointed out that Spain desires the incorporation of Tangier in the Spanish Moroccan zone while France maintains that Tangier has been withdrawn from. Spanish influence and placed under special administration.

Cannes, January 10.—It is learned from a well-informed French source that the following is the scheme for the Reparations partition: Germany will pay in all 7,750,000,000 gold Marks in kind of which Great Britain will take 50,000,000; Italy, 240,000,000; Belgium, 125,000,000; Japan, 7,000,000 France 1,250,000,000 and the remaining Allies 28,000,000.

Of the 1,000,000,000 gold marks which Germany paid last July, Belgium will take 519,000,000, Britain 450,000,000, and Italy 31,000,000.

Of the cash payable by Germany in 1922, Britain is credited with 389,000,000 and the rest will go to Belgium. But of Britain's share 139,000,000 will be lent to France which will be repaid from future German payments.

OFFICE IN LONDON

Cannes, Jan. 11.—An official memorandum gives the Conference decisions as regards the international body for the reconstruction of Europe, which will be described as the Central International Corporation and is to be established in London where it will have its principal offices.

The Corporation will be created by a special British Act of Parliament, embodying suitable provisions under the British Company Law and exempting all foreign holding from British income tax. The Corporation will consist of representatives of National Corporations, which will be established by all the participating States. A minimum capital equivalent to $20,000,000 will be provided by the National Corporations in their own currencies.

The principal function of the new body will be the examining and financing of opportunities for European reconstruction and the arranging of security for the payment of contracts.

China Was Birthplace Of The Original Goat Rider

By Elsie McCormick

From the days when Neolithic men foregathered in a hidden cave and rolled a great rock over the entrance to keep the women out to the time when the first initiate of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks discovered that goats are singularly hard-headed, every race and people have had a weakness for secret societies. In Egypt, there were groups who met in burial chambers and told stories on Mrs. Ptolemy; in Greece, there were various unchaperoned parties held under the auspices of the Loyal Eleusians; in Palestine, the builders of Solomon's Temple organised to form the first closed shop; and in North America the Indians were meeting in the best tepee, tracing cabalistic pictures on the wall, and wondering what the squaws were going to have for dinner.

All the world is fond of exclusive and ritualistic organisations. Every normal human being seems to have inherited a taste for grips, passwords exchanged in the dark, regalia, high-sounding titles, and the torment of blind-folded neophytes. This classification also includes women, for present experience proves that they enjoy surreptitious ceremonials as much as the men in the family, and the only thing that kept them from forming such organisations in the past was the harem system, Victorian standards of feminine conduct and the old-fashioned stone mallet. Now that they have gained comparative freedom, Native Daughters, Chapters of the Eastern Star, and Lady Maccabees are sprouting all over the place.

CHINA HAS IT, TOO

China has certainly not been an exception to the general rule of love for abracadabra. In fact, possessing as she does an unswerving devotion to a flower-ridden vocabulary, a great fondness for formality and stately ceremonies, a natural talent for acting, and a gift for organisation, China has enough secret societies to place lodge insignia on the lapels of every one of her citizens—if they had lapels, or if the lodges had insignia.

Whenever a Chinese has an idea or a grievance or a hobby, he goes off and forms a secret society about it. Their motives range from the overturning of the political system to the advocating of dried lengkeng as an article of diet. In some of the older organisations there are said to be definite traces of Masonry, and in practically all of them there is a high-sounding, idealistic ritual and enough elaborately named offices to delight the hearts of all the shoe clerks in the Ku Klux Klan.

The great difficulty is that Chinese secret societies can't seem to keep out of mischief or live up to their standards. An organisation formed to promote vegetarianism ended by slaughtering missionaries. A great nation-wide society inaugurated to foster brotherly love demonstrated its principles by blowing up the Porcelain Pagoda, ravaging villages, and laying Nanking itself almost in ruins.

TONG WARS DEADLY

In San Francisco, where the Chinese are on the whole a law-abiding, hard-working, and entirely desirable element of the population, wars between the various "tongs" or societies break out occasionally with deadly effect. For a month or more the Chinese settlement is the scene of vendetta battles fought from behind telegraph [illegible] Dupont street rings with the clanging of the ambulance gongs, and overworked attaches of the District Attorney's office sit up late nights making out informations against John Doe Hop and Richard Roe Sing. Several suspects are arrested, testimony is given at a preliminary hearing, and then suddenly, after the societies have held a secret meeting, Chinatown blossoms out in red paper peace treaties, smiles and universal good will.

When the cases came up for hearing in the Superior Court, it develops of course that nobody saw anything. Perspiring and exasperated attorneys fling questions at a passing witness, reads him his own testimony at the preliminary hearings, and threaten him with a sentence for contempt of court. All in vain. The witness, with an expression as tranquil as a Buddha merely grins a little and remarks happily, "No have see." As usual, the defendant is found "Not guilty" by a jury of almshouse candidates who are careful not to reach a decision until after the state has paid their checks for a first-class hotel dinner.

TONGS MISUNDERSTOOD

Tongs are not understood in America, even by the most expert detectives on the so-called "Chinatown Squad." Little is known about them except that they are outgrowths of secret societies in China and that they succeed in keeping all their activities secret except for the unavoidable publicity occasioned at times by shooting non-members from behind ash-cans.

In China the most important lodge brotherhood is known as the Triad Society. Though it has suffered a sharp decline in numbers and prestige since the founding of the Chinese Republic, a modified form of it is said to be carrying on in practically all the provinces. The organisation, which claims great antiquity, was first cradled in Kwangtung and Fokien. It spread rapidly to all parts of the country and became especially strong among colonies of Chinese who had emigrated to other lands. In the Straits Settlements alone its membership twenty years ago was given at 156,440.

The Triad Society has all the mummery and trappings dear to every son of Adam who wishes to spend an occasional evening away from home. Apparently the provision in its constitution which allows wives and daughters to be informed regarding certain parts of the ceremonial accounts for the fact that many ritualistic details have spread far beyond the sacred archives. If this provision regarding disclosure were granted to wives

Non-Molestation In Asia Was Major Issue With Nippon

HUGHES HOPEFUL

Secretary Seeking Way To Pacify China On Shantung Question

(Trans-Pacific News Service Exclusive To The China Press)

Washington, Jan. 10.—American newspapers, in publishing a resume of the work accomplished by the Washington conference, point out that Japan won all along the line. They explain that the Japanese delegates scored on the major issue in which they were really concerned when they came here, namely, the non-molestation of the position of their vountry on the Asiatic mainland.

China's representatives at the Conference said tonight, however, that "new avenues for finding a settlement of the Shantung question were being explored."

The voyage of discovery was undertaken, it was explained, because of the indisposition of Japan to avail herself of the good offices of Hughes and Balfour. The Chinese spokesman would shed no light on what direction the new avenues would take. He declined to affirm or deny that one of them leads to the White House.

In the meantime the Japanese delegates have referred the whole matter to Tokio, and they do not expect to receive instructions to recede from the stand already taken. The Chinese are also adamant in that respect.

Secretary of State Hughes continues hopeful, but is not particularly persuasive when he voices his "confidence" that the Shantung question will be amicably settled here.

Secretary Hughes today set at rest disquieting rumors that the conference had been induced to sidetrack Siberian matters by stating flatfootedly that the agenda which relates to Siberia would be adhered to.

Baron Kato will speak before the Japan Society of New York on January 14, and it is announced that he will utilise this occasion to review the results of the conference from the Japanese-American standpoint.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 11.—It is understood that President Harding intends to submit all Conference treaties to the Senate simultaneously, probably a few days before the adjournment of the Conference.

High officials are of the opinion that it is unlikely that the American Merchant Marine problems will come before the Conference, but intimate that they might probably be discussed by the Genoa Conference.

The Sino-Japanese conversations regarding Shantung will be resumed tomorrow. This undoubtedly is due to the good offices of Mr. Balfour and Mr. Hughes. It is expected that the discussion will embrace other problems and if an agreement is reached it is hoped that the railway question may then be arranged.

Among the matters still unsettled is the disposal of the Shantung salt mines, from which Japan desires to continue to ship salt under some form of Chinese supervision but on the contrary China is believed to desire that the mines shall be treated similarly to those in other parts of China.

Washington, Jan. 11.—The Conference of drafting experts has now practically concluded the final shape in which the Naval Treaty will be presented at the next plenary session. Mr. Elihu

Root, assisted by members of the American Delegation, is drafting the Chinese treaty. This document has not yet been put into concrete form owing to the preoccupation of the other delegations with the Naval Treaty.

The Shantung question still hangs fire. Both the Japanese and Chinese delegations are waiting to see what the other is going to do. Mr. Balfour and Mr. Hughes are continuing the informal negotiations with both delegations in the hope of bringing about a compromise.

Although Mr. Balfour and Lord Lee are delaying their departure in order to see the Conference through, a considerable number of less important members of the British Delegation have already left.

(Special To The China Press)

Washington, Jan. 10.—Only technicalities in the phraseology of the Four Power treaty remain to be worked out before it goes to the delegates for signatures. The plenipotentiaries of the delegations met separately to discuss a tentative draft, which is expected to be ready for publication at the plenary session on Thursday and Friday.

The draft includes the agreement adopted today limiting the guns on merchantmen to six inches and the prohibition of the conversion of merchantmen larger than 10,000 tons into auxiliary battleships.

Secretary of State Hughes has assured the Conference that the agenda will be covered despite evidences of inattention. It is still believed, however, that only general resolutions will be passed over the remaining Far Eastern questions.

In the belief that final settlement of Far Eastern questions will be settled by Monday the delegations are preparing to leave Washington.

Baron Kato expects to sail by the Shinyo Maru from San Francisco on January 24, but will cancel those arrangements unless the Conference has ended by then.

SWEDISH YACHT ON WORLD JAUNT IS COMING HERE

The Swedish sailing yacht Fedra which left Karlskrona, Sweden on September 25, 1920 on a round-the-world voyage is expected in Shanghai from Japan next week. The vessel arrived in Yokohama last week after a quiet trip from the Caroline Islans which was the last stop before the yacht arrived in Japan.

The Fedra is owned by Lieutenant Sune Tamm of the Swedish Navy and his brother, Mr. Seb. Tamm, amateur yachtsman. Three other Swedish naval officers, Lieutenant W. Thorburn, Lientenant A. Simmonsson and Lieutenant N. Rejswijk in addition to Lientenant Tamm are on board the craft and are making voyage to study navigation and seamanship. Lieutenant T. Grill of the cavalry branch of the Swedish Army also is a passenger on the Fedra but is making the voyage as a pleasure jaunt.

After leaving Karlskrona more than a year ago the Fedra has been making her way leisurely about the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Several ports in England were visited before crossing the Atlantic, and since that time stops have been made at Madeira, Canary Islands, Bahia, Brazil, Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires in addition to ports in the Falkland Islands, Fiji Islands, the Marquesas and the Carolines.

The little craft which is only 101 feet long and 18 feet wide was taken by her officers through the Straits of Magellan, a feat which always offers much difficulty to veteran navigators in command of large ships and is considered a test of navigating skill.

There are only 11 men on board the Fedra, including the naval and many men. Three deck hands are carried and three men of the 11 are on every watch. The Fedra has a draft of 18 feet and has two masts carrying a mainsail, mizen, jib and staysail.

The Fedra was built 26 years ago at Southampton, England, for Lord Dunraven, the famous British yachtsman, who preceded Sir Thomas Lipton in challenging for America's cup.

Local Organisations Denounce Premier

Various local Chinese organisations have sent telegrams to Liang Shih-yi condemning his actions with regard to the policy outlined by him for the delegates at the Washington Conference, the reinstatement in office of "enemies of the people" and the raising of the salt loan. At a meeting of Shanghai Cantonese yesterday a particularly bitter denunciation was framed—Liang being a Cantonese—which wound up with expressions of regret that the new premier has the fortune to be a Chinese citizen.

Invitation to join is usually pasted on the house of a person regarded as a desirable member. Apparently the organisation does not take kindly to rejection slips, for there are on record numerous cases of unwilling neophytes who were trussed up like a recalcitrant porker and carried off to the initiation in a sack. Candidates are expected to present themselves with dishevelled hair, disordered clothes, and shoeless feet, like college freshmen being marched past the women's dormitory on the way to the Chemistry Pond.

The first step in the ceremony is to swear to their birth-certificates, which we suppose effectually bars lady members. The ritual that follows concerns much kneeling down and getting up again, burning of numerous joss-sticks, passing under an arch of bared swords with three red stones in one hand and twenty-one cash in the other, lighting the "Seven-Starred Lamp," throwing blades of grass on a censer, killing a cock, and "crossing the moat" before entering "the East Gate of the City of Willows." We presume that crossing the moat is the Oriental version of cake-walking over the hot sands.

Anyway, after swearing to an oath with 36 articles in it which demonstrates the carrying power of profanity, the neophyte is declared a member of the league. During the course of his initiation he promises to treat the relatives of brother members as his own, to have grievances against brothers heard in the lodge instead of in court, and to return evil with forgiveness. In practice, however, certain chapters of the Triad Society were so far from carrying out their ideals that the Hongkong government inposed a fine of a thousand dollars on anyone found guilty of being a member.

A brother of the order who wished to be recognised as such had only to enter a house by the left foot after a marked pause, turn his feet pigeon-toed after sitting down, and tuck up the right leg of his trousers above the line of the left. There was also a complicated signal system employing betel nuts, fans, pipes, tea-pots, and wine cups.

The Triad Society's day of greatest strength occurred around 1850 when it attempted to overthrow the Manchu government. One of its members, having made a study of the foreign religion, tried to graft its principles on to China's ancient secret order. The leader accordingly declared himself the "younger brother of Christ" and the "King of the Heavenly Realm of Universal Peace," though the actions of his followers in the Taiping Rebellion made these titles seem peculiarly inappropriate. Since the inglorious end of the rebellion, the Triad Society has dwindled in importance. Distant echoes of its warlike past are occasionally to be heard, however, in the clanging of the ambulance gong through the Chinese quarter of San Francisco.

OTHER SECRET ORDERS

There are other secret orders in China, including the Tsai Li Temperance Society, a Buddhist organisation which forbids the use of wine and tobacco and which has an estimated membership of 50,000 in Chihli Province alone. There are also reports of a Golden Orchid Society composed of young women who have sworn never to marry. The Boxers were members of a secret lodge modelled somewhat on the Triad Society and having just as many virtuous pretensions in its ritual.

Yes, China is rather fond of secret societies and this fondness puts her in line with the rest of humanity from the native of the New Hebrides to a college student about to join the agricultural fraternity of Alph Alpha.

Coins Are Not Disease Carriers, Say U. S. University Officials

(Reuter's Service)

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 28.—There seems to be little basis for the belief that coins bear any close relation to the spread of disease, according to an announcement made at the University of Illinois here by Drs. Charlotte B. Ward and Fred W. Tanner, of the University, following a series of tests by the two.

"Coins of the lower denominations were examined for the types of bacteria which exist on them," says the report. "It has often been stated that money is a very dangerous article of commerce since it is handled by all sorts of persons and because it usually moves so quickly from one person to another. It has also been stated that cashiers and others whose vocations require them to handle in larger quantities than the average person, might be more susceptible to disease but this does not seem to be the case.

"It seems that the very metals from which the coins are made act to destroy the bacteria which reach the coins. In the study only the more resistant bacteria, the spore-forming bacteria, were found. This indicates that money need not be feared for bacteria cannot live long on it.

"These findings, however, do not justify holding coins in the mouth while the hands are serving other purposes."

"Coins as they are passed from person to person come in contact with acids and alkalis which form soluble salts on their surfaces," says the report on the tests.

"This is indicated by the green color often noticed on pennies and the tarnished appearances on nickels. These salts are the cause of the death of the bacteria and probably those coins which have an old appearance are the ones which have few bacteria."

Drs. Ward and Tanner have pointed out that postage stamps have somewhat the same relation to the public that money does, although their constitution is quite different from that of coins. Stamps are used but once and are not handled by so many individuals although the adhesive applied to them might be a favorable abode for micro-organisms for relatively long periods of time. Nevertheless, the menace is not regarded as a threatening one, and in an investigation conducted some years ago with reference to the question here at issue, pathogenic bacteria were rarely found on stamps.

Protests Against Auction Of Unemployed In Church

The Rev. Paul Nalonez, vicar of St. Mark's Chapel, New York, who threatens to use force, if necessary, to keep Charles Ledoux out of his church, if Leodux persists in carrying out his plans of auctioning off unemployed men in New York. While in New York on previous visits, Mr. Ledoux had made St. Mark's Chapel his unemployed headquarters. "He will certainly not attempt any auctioning in this church while I am here," the vicar said. "In these days we need sensible projects to relieve distress, not wild dreams. We need no men anxious to get into the newspapers with all sorts of dramatic contrivances."

BEDDALL LOSES CASE AGAINST DOCK COMPANY

In the suit of Mr. Ernest Beddall against the Shanghai Dock and Engineering Company claiming transportation expenses home and certain sums for alleged wrongful dismissal a judgment was handed down yesterday in the British Supreme Court by Judge Peter Grain in favor of the Shanghai Dock and Engineering Company. The court held that due to lengthy absences from duty the plaintiff had been discharged by the company and that a release he had signed on June 29 was binding.

On June 27 the Company sent a letter to the plaintiff stating that after full consideration of the facts of the case they had decided to dispense with his services and without any prejudice to any claim the Company may have against him they would pay him on demand all money lying at his credit with them. The Judge continued: a day after the plaintiff received this notice he went to Mr. Burns and asked for his passage home to be paid. This was refused, and was told that he would have to apply to the Directors. On June 29 he called on Mr. Dawson, the Secretary of the Company, and Mr. Dawson pointed out that if the strict letter of the agreement was adhered to, his deposit would be forfeited. The plaintiff then gave Mr. Dawson a receipt for all money due and the deposit, and the document signed by Beddall was as follows: — "I, Ernest Beddall, hereby acknowledge that my services with the Shanghai Dock and Engineering Co., Ltd., have been terminated on June 21, 1921."

The plaintiff claimed $2,500 for wrongful dismissal or breach of agreement and pleaded that there was no consideration for the receipt signed by him on June 29, and that he was induced to sign it by undue influence, and therefore a Court of Equity ought to set it aside.

GIVE JUDGMENT FOR TLS. 93,243 AGAINST LUYT

Judgment for Tls. 93,243.45 with costs was given in the British Supreme Court yesterday in favor of the Netherlands Trading Company against Mr. F. W. Luyt. The suit arose out of certain exchange contracts.

When the matter came up yesterday Mr. Lipson Ward, appearing for the plaintiffs, stated to Judge Peter Grain that his clients had received a telegram on Tuesday stating that the defendant left Hongkong by the Takada on January 4 for Singapore. He had also received information that the defendant had given instructions to his representative to sell his furniture. It was obvious that he had treated the Court with contempt and had left Shanghai in order to avoid what he knew was his just liability, counsel said.

Judge Grain went into the history of the case and mentioned the numerous occasions on which the case was adjourned and of the application to have the case tried by a jury which he denied. Eventually the Full Court sustained the decision. The case then came for trial on December 16, it was heard in part and for various reasons adjourned. After that the Court received a medical certificate stating that the defendant was not well, and the Court thought it was right to give him more forbearance, and the hearing was adjourned.

The Court had heard nothing from Luyt, Judge Grain said, and added that he considered that the plaintiff had exercised very great forbearance.

THE NEW MYSTERIOUS FACTOR-IN-FOOD.

A CERTAIN mysterious element in food called VITAMINE! Science has established that our store of energy and even health itself depend upon it.

One of America's most eminent physiological chemists says: "Long continued—general debility follows the continued ingestion of food containing too little of this vitamine."

Primitive man secured an abundance of vitamine from his raw foods and green leafy vegetables. But modern diet, refined and modified, has often been deprived of much of the water-soluble vitamine. That is why so many seemingly well-fed people are slowly lowering their vitality from day to day without knowing it.

To get enough of this vitamine so essential to health thousands are already eating Fleischmann's Yeast, and are finding new stores of health and energy, and a vigor unknown for years. Physicians and hospitals are prescribing it to stimulate the appetite, help digestion and gradually take the place of laxatives.

Eat Fleischmann's Yeast before or between meals—from 1 to 3 cakes a day. It has a rich creamcheesy consistency and distinctive flavor you will like. Nibble it from the cake or spread it with butter on crackers, toast or bread. Only one precaution: If troubled with gas, dissolve yeast first in boiling water.

Colds are mainly the result of a lowered Vitality. Fleismann's Yeast stimulates your resistance and helps digest the increased food which the appetite demands. The Bakerite Bakery, 36 Nanking Road, is using it in all their breads and beginning January 10, 1922, have arranged for the continued importation of it in cold storage and can supply it fresh in limited quantities.

MARY'S FIANCE NOTED FOR MANY HUMAN TRAITS

Former Orderly Tells Of His Popularity During The War

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Dec. 12.—Numerous stories of the life and personality during the war of Viscount Lascelles, fiancee of Her Royal Highness, Princess Mary, when the betrothal was announced, were told among the soldiers of the British army on the Rhine who had served the recipient of two D. S. O., awards in the famous Grenadier Guards. Soon after the Armistice Viscount Lascelles, who wore three wound stripes, led the second battalion of the Guards into Cologne as a part of the army of occupation of the Rhineland.

A Grenadier, who served formerly as the distinguished officer's "batman," or orderly, said that he was a typical Guards officer and a real man in every sense of the word, a strict disciplinarian, to whom polish and shine and cleanliness was a second religion.

His own kit was a model of what all kits should be, in the eyes of the "batman," and even in the front line trenches during an engagement, Viscount Lascelles would appear in speckless khaki, with buttons brilliantly polished when the orders of the day permitted it. In the heaviest "strafe", Viscount Lascelles would be the most cheerful of his company.

"Often Lord Lascelles would give up his blankets on a cold night so that a private in his company would not suffer," said the "batman." "He was always most considerate of his men and in many cases where most officers would have handed out seven days in the guard house, he would let his soldiers off, for some trifling offense with only a slight reprimand and the request to be more careful next time.

"Viscount Lascelles was very fond of sharing his parcels from home with his men: Surprise gifts of cigarettes, chocolate, socks and shirts and other useful articles were often distributed rather mysteriously in the rest billets, and although everyone knew where they came from our commander never admitted that he was the fairy godfather of our battalion."

The commission, appointed by Governor Wallace R. Farrington, in accordance with the rehabilitation act passed by Congress, hopes to establish the first settlers on Molokai by January 1, 1923. The land selected is practically virgin soil and must be cleared and prepared for the farmers.

Twelve Houses Burn, Fireman Is Injured In Macao Road Blaze

A fireman was injured about the face and shoulders by a falling wall at a fire which destroyed twelve small dwellings and slightly damaged five others in Macao Road shortly before noon yesterday.

A very much delayed alarm was given the Department, it being found that the fire had been discovered at least twenty minutes or half an hour before the matter was reported, and consequently the blaze had gained great headway when Sinza division arrived. Matters were further held up by the fact that the nearest hydrant was found out of order.

Employes of the Nagai Wata Kaisha No. 5 Mill, which was close to the outbreak, were attempting to check the flames, but with no success, when the brigade men arrived.

Work Halted In Siberian Mines

(Delta News Agency)

Harbin, Jan. 7.—The workers and peasants in the Suchan coal mines in the Maritime province are forming Partisan detachments against the reactionaries. The Kappelists are powerless to cope with the situation. On December 24 two battalions of Partisans passed through Shkotovo towards Venektovka. To reinforce the Kappelists in this district a strong detachment of Japanese was despatched on the pretext of preventing bloodshed.

Work in the Suchan mines is almost at a standstill. The small number of remaining miners is prevented from working normally on account of the searches and arrests made by the Kappelists every day. Lately the Kappelists discovered in mine No. 10 a quantity of Communist literature and the minutes of the Strike Committee. This led to the arrest of many miners and the subsequent suspension of work for a number of days.

TWO BIG FACTORS WILL INFLUENCE COTTON PRICES

Attitude Of Southern Holders And Acreage To Determine Trend

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Dec. 16.—Opinions as to the future course of cotton prices are very much mixed. A well known commission house, having extensive foreign connections thinks that unless there is a decided improvement in demand there is enough cotton in sight to allay any undue apprehension. They say the South still has considerable volume of cotton to sell but it is not believed this will be pressed for sale except on reasonably substantial advances. A student of cotton economics believes that the future of cotton depends upon two factors; one the attitude of the Southern holder, the other next year's acreage. He declares that if those who own the unsold portion of this year's crop refuse to sell it and those by whose labor next year's crop must be produced insist upon so restricting the acreage that there will be no surplus, prices are unlikely to decline and will probably advance.

Already plans are under way for a small acreage again next spring, but it is safe to say that after the experience of this season that the trade will be inclined to believe with the Government that many farmers will probably agree to reduce drastically but that a great many will put in a little more on the idea that the other fellow will reduce. A big Texas company openly predicts that if cotton holds around 17 cents the South will plant a tremendous acreage. On the other hand a conference of cotton planters, merchants and bankers, meeting in Memphis, decided to inaugurate a campaign for cotton acreage limitation and crop diversification and adopted resolutions urging that next year's acreage be limited to the area planted to cotton in 1921, which was 32,332,000 acres, or 12.7 percent under that of 1920. They proposed to limit the next crop to not over 8,000,000 bales.

The trade is going to be very skeptical of acreage cuts however and bullish Southern propaganda is not going to receive the attention in speculative circles that it received last spring and summer. This view has been taken by some of the biggest trade papers here which for several days scored very severely the Agricultural Department's action, in long articles.

With the New Year will come increasing discussion of the next acreage nevertheless, and while it is generally conceded that ample supplies are in sight for the balance of this season, the trade will view another small crop with alarm. That the South will plant freely is quite probable unless prices drop considerably under the present level, but widespread boll weevil activities and the possibility of bad weather will surround the next crop with an interest that has not been manifested in many years.

"Began to think she would never get well."

Our Portrait is of Miss FLORRIE ORGAN, of 100, Clark Street, Ladywood, Birmingham, England, whose father writes:

"My daughter Florrie was suffering with a very bad head covered with Sores and Eruptions, and in fact her mother was afraid to comb her hair. She had been under several doctors, but all to no purpose, so I began to think she would never get well again and lose all her hair. As your 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' cured me of Glandular Swellings in the Neck some years ago, and so averted my having to undergo an operation, I decided to give 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' a fair trial in the case of my daughter, and I am pleased to say it effected a wonderful cure in just over a fortnight."

SUFFERERS from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Piles, Eczema, Boils, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Eruptions, Rheumatism, Gout should realise that lotions and ointments can but give temporary relief; to be sure of complete and lasting benefit the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter the root cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes and expels the impurities; that is why so many remarkable recoveries stand to its credit. Pleasant to take, and free from injurious ingredients.

Jim Thorpe Premier Athlete Quits All Strenuous Games

After Twenty Years American Star Seeks Restful Recreation

Jim Thorpe, the noted Indian athlete, rated by Grantland Rice in his "All-Star Parade" in the New York Tribune as the greatest all around athlete, has finally quit the playing of more strenuous games and is turning his attention to hunting, to fishing and to other of the less strenuous exercises.

The famous Carlisle Indian, after more than 20 years of exceptional activity in the fields of music and brain testing sports, played his last game afield, a professional football match one month ago today. He called it, before the first whistle, his "swan song."

"I have laid aside a tidy sum and feel that it is about time I retired from active football playing," Thorpe said in explaining his retirement. "My decision is not influenced by a desire to avoid the hard knocks of the game, for I love it above all others, and am confident I could continue in the game for five years longer without any appreciable let down in my play. It is simply that I feel that I have played long enough, and mean to turn my attention to hunting and fishing and less strenuous sports."

Thorpe first appeared in athletics at the Carlisle Indian School in 1901. At that time, he was only a lad of sixteen, and not for several seasons did he come into prominence. But once he did, he was there to stay. Following closely in the footsteps of Frank Mount Pleasant, he took up the burden of Carlisle football, almost single handed, and for four years prior to 1912, was the unanimous choice for an All American backfield position. Indeed, his work during these seasons was such that he is now rated with Ned Mahan, of Harvard; Ted Coy, of Yale, and Willie Heston, of Michigan, as the four greatest backs that ever played football.

In 1913 Thorpe accompanied the American Olympic team to Stockholm and simply spread-eagled his fields in winning the pentathlon and decathlon titles in track and field, but later in the year he was declared a professional and signed with the New York Giants.

For some years he sat on the New York bench under the eye of John McGraw and while the Indian gave great promise as a ball player, his weakness against curve ball pitching ultimately proved his undoing. He, however, passed in and out of the majors several times, playing in the outfield of the Cincinnati Reds and Boston Braves for several seasons. In his final year in the big leagues he hit well up toward .330 for the Braves, but by that time he had gotten along in years and was allowed to pass out from under the big tent.

Aside from his football and his baseball prowess Thorpe was a sprinter, a jumper, a weight thrower, a hurdler—the world's champion all round athlete for 1912. He carried on for 20 years. And now he goes to fishing and the less strenuous sports!

New York, Nov. 18.—The Australian team of Reggie McNamara and Alex. McBeath won the 24-hour bike race at Madison Square Garden, the first bike event of the year, which ended at 11 o'clock last night. Percy Lawrence and Lloyd Thomas of San Francisco were second, and the team of Alfred Granda and Jackie Clark third. Gus Langan and Dave Land of New Jersey were fourth.

Bobby Walthour Jr., son of the famous Bobby Walthour who rode in so many six-day events and his partner, Charley Jaeger, quit the race at 6:30 p.m., owing to Jaeger's becoming ill. Twelve teams finished.

Two Basketball Games On Tonight At Chinese "Y"

Y. M. C. A. basketball team in the Foreign League, which has not won a game since the opening of the present season, hooks up with the Shanghai College five which has won but two, tonight on the "Y" floor commencing at 8 o'clock. It will be a battle of cellar champions, with odds favoring the "Y".

The second game of the night's card, commencing at 9:15 o'clock should furnish a dandy exhibition of basketball, with the undefeated Bearcats opposing the classy quintet of youngsters from the American School. The boys should give the league leaders a nice game, for they must have benefitted by their match Monday with the Bowside, when they lost by a lack of smoothness and precision in shooting.

The Bowside and the Stroke-side of the Rowing Club meet on the Rowing Club floor tomorrow at 5:30 p.m. to be followed commencing at 6:30 with a match between the Public School and Anderson Meyer.

TWO CANADIAN CRICKET TEAMS TO TOUR ENGLAND

(China Press Service)

Toronto, Ontario—In all probability two cricket elevens representing Toronto will tour England next summer. Norman Seagram, a prominent local cricketer and all-round sportsman, has already secured the promises of a number of the leading players of that district and now has the program for a six weeks' trip practically completed. The tour will take place during the last half of July and all of August. Mr. Seagram, who is captain of the Toronto Cricket Club, has personally undertaken to finance the trip.

While the local team will be a strong one, as far as Canadian cricket is concerned, the sponsor of the trip does not claim that it will be strong enough to play against the first-class English county teams and the schedule is almost entirely composed of matches with second-class elevens. Among the players who have promised to go with Mr. Seagram are D. W. Saunders, Percy Henderson, Harry Lounsbrough, Hugh Reid, H. G. Davidson, H. G. Wookey, Thomas Seagram, Gerald Green and V. Mustard. It is intended to secure another good bowler to round out the team.

G. B. Woods, president of the Yorkshire Cricket Club, champions of Canada and holders of the John Ross Robertson Cup, is the man behind the other invasion of England. Mr. Woods has completed arrangements whereby his eleven will be financed without expense to the individual players, and he has already received the assurances of a number of the leading cricketers of Toronto and Ontario that they will accompany him if he arranges teh tour. Mr. Woods' team will be in England during the same time as the other eleven.

American Athletes Barred In Canada

Toronto, Dec. 10.—The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada adopted an amendment to its rules today which will prevent any but Canadian citizens from competing in future Canadian track and field championships.

United States competitors have in the past taken a prominent part in Canadian meets and twenty of the fifty-seven Canadian track and field records are held by athletes who are citizens of countries other than Canada.

The object of the change is to encourage Canadian athletes.

Jockey Killed In Races At Bankok

Bankok, Dec. 19.—The last day of the Grand Stand meeting was marred when in the third race Chymm, the jockey on Taharn Na, took a toss between the four and five furlong posts and was killed instantaneously. The race had just commenced and when Chymm was thrown he remained motionless, obviously injured. No move was made in his direction for some little time and it was considerably longer before a medical man arrived, only to pronounce life extinct.

Hongkong Boxing Assn. Plan Bouts

Hongkong, Jan. 8.—The Hongkong Boxing Association will hold a boxing tournament at Ming Yuen Gardens Saturday. Six contests are on the program.

The main event will be a 15 round heavy weight contest for the championship of the Colony in which Petty Officer Cover of H.M.S. Titania will be opposed by Pte. Wilkins, also of the same vessel. Petty Officer Cover was light heavyweight champion of the Grand Fleet in 1915, 1916 and 1917; while Private Wilkins was Heavyweight Champion of the China Fleet in 1920 and fought A. B. Seaman Evans for the Heavyweight Championship of the Colony, last April. An excellent fight is anticipated.

Another important item is the 10-round Catchweight Contest between Stoker P. O. Morgan of H.M.S. Hawkins and A. B. Seaman Bowdidge of H.M.S. Carlisle who once matched with R. B. Martin at Shanghai, last May but withdrew at Ring-time. Morgan is Welter and Middleweight Champion and Bowdidge Heavyweight Champion of the China Fleet. As a "needle" contest, it should prove most interesting to enthusiasts of the "noble art" and we are informed that fairly large sized stakes have been put up between the two contatants.

Hongkong Interport Golf Selections Are Announced

Strong Team Will Oppose Local Stars On January 18

The team of Shanghai's golfers which arrives in Hongkong today on the steamer Empress of Japan for the interport match on Wednesday will be opposed by a list of unusually strong players, judging from the selections announced by the Honorary Secretary of the Royal Hongkong Golf club.

The Southern team will be composed of Champion R. Melville Smith, A. B. Stewart, H. R. Buckland, A. H. Ferguson and Major H. G. Bagnall. Mr. T. W. Hill has been selected as a reserve. The players are conceded to be Hongkong's best.

The big interport match will be preceded by a friendly match between the Shanghai visitors and players from the United Services, on Monday. The match was accepted by the Shanghai captain as a final practice for his team.

The United Services planned the match with Shanghai to be played under the same conditions as their recent match with the Club, six men to the team.

Waiting Members Play At Kiangwan This Saturday

At Kiangwan on Saturday and Sunday there will be a golf match under the auspices of the Shanghai Golf Club for a 18 holes medal play. Only waiting members may compete, and a cup is offered in this connection. The entrance fee is fifty cents, handicaps to be announced on the day of play.

Hill, British Runner, Invited To America

Boston, Dec. 10.—The hope of having Albert G. Hill, the British mile running star, come to this country to compete in indoor games this winter was expressed here today by John G. Anderson of New York.

Anderson, who is athletic manager for the Millrose A. A., said that Hill had given him a promise to compete in the Millrose games at New York on February 1 and at the Boston A. A. games here on February 4, conditional on his ability to obtain a leave of absence from his employment.

Hill holds the British amateur record for the mile of 4 minutes, 13 4-5 seconds. He would meet under present plans Joie Ray, the American champion; James G. Connolly of Georgetown, the intercollegiate title-holder, and others.

Exchange Fluctuations
Asia Banking Corporation

January 11, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were unchanged in London yesterday.

The New York price advanced to 66⅝ cents, and the London-New York cross rate to 422¾.

The only changes in the official quotations here today were a drop in the Gold Dollar rate to 75¼, and in the Franc rate to 915.

However, as the market was on the easy side, the official Sterling quotation was subsequently dropped to 3-6½, the Gold Dollar rate to 74¾, and the other rates changed proportionately.

After the change in rates the market was steady, with sellers of Sterling at 3-6⅝ for January, 3-6⅞ for February and 3-5½ for March.

At the same time there were sellers of Gold Dollars at 74⅝ for January, 73½ for February and 73 for March.

The market was very quiet throughout the day, with very little business passing.

The general tone of the silver market at present seems on the easy side, but in view of tight money locally, and the near approach of China New Year, our local rates are hardly likely to drop very much during the present month.

Sugar Prices To Ascend Next Year

(Special To The China Press)

Washington, Jan. 10.—High prices for sugar are to be expected according to the report of the Department of Commerce on their sugar investigation, made public today.

The 1922 world sugar production is estimated at between 400,000 and 800,000 tons less that the 1921 production. The report, however, presented the belief that the 1922 consumption will exceed the 1921 consumption and "thus absorb all or some of the surplus". The present price for raw sugar is declared to be the lowest in twenty years.

A Glimpse Of The Cantonese Army

BY ORRIN KEITH

ONE goes no farther in Canton than in other cities of China without catching a glimpse of Chinese soldiers; soldiers of all sorts and conditions: well-found soldiers and ragged soldiers, ex-soldiers and near soldiers. Here and there can be seen awkward squads learning the beginnings of soldiering. But it is seldom indeed that real organisations are to be seen; even squads and platoons, let alone companies and regiments.

The New Year's Day review on the North Parade Ground offered an opportunity to see what kind of an outfit General Chen could turn out. The field was not a large one. Two regiments of infantry, four companies of military police, a couple of bands and a battery of artillery comfortably filled it. At the appointed hour, nine o'clock, these troops were all in position and awaiting the inspection of the Commander. They were in uniform: that is, all of the men had the same outfit. There was nothing of the indiscriminate mixture of olive drab, light and dark blue and a series of grays that one has come to expect in Chinese troops. These uniforms were uniform. Equipment, likewise, was uniform, complete and in first rate condition. The rifles were all alike, the bayonets were the same, the sabres matched, blanket-rolls and kit-bags formed an unbroken perspective. Insignia denoting regiment and company were all in place and as they should be. The whole appearance of these two regiments and the old companies was that of first class troops. They looked the part of real soldiers.

Now it would not be a difficult thing to round up a couple of thousand coolies, carefully dress and place them and, by dire threats, keep them in line and in order for an inspection. Such things have been known to happen in China and such things may happen again. But there was something about these troops which was worth noting. It was apparent when they were at rest; it was more evident when they were moving. They knew what they were doing. There was no hesitation; no breaking; not even raggedness. Each organisation executed its movements as a unit. The control was perfect. This was no collection of hasty recruits for temporary show. The results of long and careful training were evident. And just as plain was the fact that the organisation, the staff work, was of the highest order.

After the General and his staff had gone the rounds, inspecting the companies as they stood at salute, they took their places in the reviewing stand. The field music from all organisations massed in the center of the parade opposite the reviewing stand. At the given command they started to perform. Here is a distinct weak point in the Cantonese organisation. There are undoubtedly more bad bands than good in Asia. Yet it is possible to develop a very acceptable one. The one that played for the march past could hardly be classed as such. The work of a good bandmaster would add much to the finish of the General's reviews.

The march past itself, however, was all that could be asked. There was never a moment's wavering. The whole command started like one man at the order to march and they went by the reviewing stand in perfect order. They marched in close column of platoons instead of company front so they were not put to the most crucial test. But what they did they did perfectly. The marching, the alignment, the salutes were without a flaw.

A curious relic of Prussian influence remains in the insufferable goose-step. The only apparent reason this was ever devised was because it gave the Prussian warlords additional pleasure to see what asses thousands of men would make of themselves at their command. It is ungraceful and undignified, both for reviewer and reviewed. No soldier in the ranks enjoys going through ballet antics and no command but looks more manly marching by with a quick firm step that means business, instead of kicking their toes in the air at every step.

There was more in the New Year's Day review, however, than the evidence of training on the part of the individual soldiers. There was more than the excellent way in which the companies were handled. The whole affair went off with a promptness and a sureness that bespoke excellent management. The moment the Governor arrived, things were ready. The troops were brought to salute and presented to him. He made his rounds, returned to the stand, and within five minutes the first company was passing in review. The others came on promptly. There was not the slightest break or delay until the battery, closing the column, had passed. In the course of an hour the whole ceremony had been completed and Governor and troops were on their way to other matters.

It would perhaps be drawing long conclusions to argue that because General Chen and his subordinates can turn out a couple of regiments which go through a review with flying colors, therefore the Canton Government has an excellent army. It is quite possible to train a couple of regiments for show purposes only and neither they nor anybody else might be able to stand a moment under fire. But there are many things by which the real mettle of an army can be judged without putting it to the actual test of battle. There are little matters which show the existence of thorough discipline, of complete control from top to bottom: in a word, of efficient organisation. These things would be different in a body of dress paraders and in a body of real soldiers on dress parade. And General Chen's troops give a strong impression of being a real organisation of soldiers. No one could watch his men in action without coming to the conclusion that he has perfected an organisation which could handle and handle effectively a vastly larger body of troops than those present at the review. General Chen has at his disposal that part of an army which is the most difficult to secure: not men, not arms, not munitions, but an efficient staff. His army has a brain.

INCOME TAX RELIEF TO RESIDENTS ABROAD

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir:—Many enquiries have reached me from, or on behalf of, individuals resident abroad, with reference to the reliefs allowed from British Income Tax in the circumstances set out in my letter of October last. As it is apparent that in many cases repayment of tax will be claimable for three years (the limit allowed) may I point out to your readers generally, that no claim for the year 1918-19 will be admitted after April 5, 1922?

Yours faithfully,

By Thomas R. Marshall: "Europe Bar To Peace"

"The Economic Situation Must Be Adjusted if Hope Is to Survive"

Our age has become so intensely materialistic and pseudo-scientific that the world has become insufferably egotistic. We prayed with more or less faith during the great war, but at conclusion of its horrors too many of us reassumed the attitude of the small boy who prayed at night, but who was perfectly able to take care of himself in the daytime.

With that doubting spirit which seems to be the strongest ally of evil, we are somewhat uncertain whether God, after all, had anything to do with the result of the war. Were we not sufficient unto ourselves, we are asking, and if God did have any part in the war was He not on the side of the heaviest battalions? I wonder how many Americans have adopted the habit of thanking God each morning that He has brought the war to a close in the way He did.

You may believe all you choose in the invincibleness of armament and in the overpowering strength of mere mentality, but the world's hope of permanent peace, prosperity and plenty will not reach fulfilment until the people are willing to follow leaders who obtain their conception of government from the principles stated in the four Gospels.

I believe in the exactitude of that statement, yet I realise that it is a waste of time to ask a hungry man about the state of his soul or to preach the duty of peace to a man who has discovered that by war he can satisfy his physical wants.

MUST HELP EUROPE

In hoping much from the conference considering the limitation of armament, we must not be diverted from a kindred question which requires solution in order to assure permanency of the successful accomplishment of the conference's purposes. The economic situation in Europe must be adjusted if hope of permanent peace and lessened armament is to survive.

The Paul Dombeys of America who have been touring Europe have returned, and a number of them have given to me what they have been pleased to call bird's eye views of the situation.

One tells me that Germany proposes to defeat the Versailles treaty, particularly its reparation clauses, with the printing press, that it is the purpose of the German Government to keep on printing marks until there shall be such a supply as to render it impossible for the Allies to collect reparation.

Another says that the German purpose is not alone to avoid reparations, but to destroy international trade and to great the business of all nations for themselves.

One tells me that the Germans are working day and night to get on in the world. Another says that they are not working at all, that they are abstaining from work or they fear that France will decree a breach of the treaty and take possession of their industries, in which event they desire her to get as little as possible.

I am also informed that the German is not working because of a belief that his government will interest of France. Still another reports that the French are not working because they intend to let Germany pay the bills.

This confusion, whether existent now or not, is likely to develop in Europe, if nothing is done about her currency, and it may develop even though the outcome of the armament conference is satisfactory.

It may be expressed in the following passage of Scripture: "When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places seeking rest and findeth none. Then he saith, I will return to my house from whence I came out: and when he is come, he findeth it empty, swept and garnished. Then goeth he, and taketh with himself seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell therein; and the last state of that man is worse than the first."

GOLD STANDARD IN PERIL

In other words, it may be a dangerous experiment to sweep militarism from a people unless business and friendly relations are substituted.

The world cannot go on and hope for peace so long as the present great difference in the values of the currencies of the different countries exist.

The German mark is practically valueless. The Italian lira is almost as bad. The condition of Austrian currency is quite unbelievable. The French franc is seriously accomplishment of the conference's purposes. The economic depreciated. Even the English pound sterling is below par.

The civilised world realises that the last hope of keeping exchange upon a gold standard is resting upon the efforts of the British Government. Our own business men and financiers must surely be alarmed as to whether England can succeed in maintaining her gold standard.

Should the gold standard disappear from the world, civilisation would return practically to fiat money without anything of intrinsic value back of it save the taxing power of the several governments. Then no government, not even our own, could prevent the gold in its treasury from becoming a mere article of trade and commerce.

Self-preservation demands that we take some steps to divert this catastrophe. Reduced to fiat money, the world would let loose devils worse even than arms and armament.

We are the greatest creditor nation of the world today. We have at least forty percent of the gold of the world, totalling in our vaults more than three and a half billion dollars. Such a sum is not needful to secure the stability of our monetary system. I am convinced that we could do without a billion dollars of this gold and yet maintain a perfectly safe system of finance.

Notwithstanding the intense longing of the American people for stabilised exchange, which longing finds expression in conversation everywhere, whether at the dinner table or on the street corner, it is apparent that an administration which should attempt to rehabilitate the finances of Europe without safeguarding this country against the assistance that might be given and without obtaining assurances that the aid rendered would not be used by the European governments to increase their armies and navies would meet with a very prompt and proper rebuke.

STABILISE EXCHANGE

On the other hand, if anything can be done to restore to a parity or to something near a parity the currencies of the several countries in Europe under positive assurance that the aid would not be used for either the armies or the navies of the countries to which it is given, this action would, in my judgment, meet with the approval of the American people.

This would be a fitting supplement to the limitation of armament and should go with it. It would be the same as our saying that having swept and garnished your houses of any further desire to make war on other countries we are not going to put you into a position to resume our normal condition of trade and to have your fair chance for business in the markets of the world.

I am not trying to interfere with the armament conference or to complicate its work. Having put behind me regrettable incidents of the past, I look forward with hope to anything proposed for the good of mankind.

I merely make the tentative suggestion that an American commission might be created and authorised to furnish money in the shape of gold bullion to rehabilitate the depreciated currencies of the Old World, provided, as I have pointed out, that the commission be clothed with sufficient power to guard against the possible danger of the new currency which would be issued upon the basis of the gold bullion being used for military or naval purposes.

Not only the restoration of Europe to a real peace footing but the revival of American trade depends very largely upon a stability of exchange in every country engaged in the world commerce. The economic breakdown of Europe may well be considered in promoting the altruistic purposes of the Washington conference.

Japan Is Determined To Dominate, Says Lovat Fraser

Japan is unquestionably determined to become the dominant power in Eastern Asia and the adjacent seas. We talk of the Japanese military party, whose intentions are aggressive, but behind that party lies the instinctive tendency of the bulk of the Japanese nation. The only Power definitely determined to thwart Japanese ambitions is the United States. Japan is at present in a position to sweep the American flag out of the Eastern seas and to gain an economic mastery over China. If Japan refuses to disarm she will inevitably contemplate the alternative of war, because she will never have a better chance than now.

The Conference is really gathered around the prostrate body of China. The Republic of China is falling to pieces. There is one Government in Peking, another in Canton, and a third is being set up in the far interior. Military adventurers with scratch "armies" are seizing various Chinese provinces and becoming a law unto themselves.

Japan wants to step into China and establish control. The United States stands for what is called the "Open Door" in China, and forbids Japan's aims. American public opinion will not now tolerate any compromise with Japan about China. America wants to get Japan out of China and out of Siberia, and will make no concession, although as yet unable to enforce her views.

Is there any ground for hoping that this World War may be averted? I think there is though not a great deal. Japan sees that if she strikes she will be alone in the world, and she does not like the prospect. It is hardly necessary to say that Great Britain would give no countenance to Japan in such an issue.

A war in which Japan sought entry into China would instantly rupture the Alliance, the principal object of which, be it remembered, is to preserve "the independence and integrity" of the Chinese Empire.

The American public, however, expect us to go a good deal farther at Washington, and there comes the difficulty. They will not listen to any proposal for a joint agreement between Great Britain, Japan and the United States, which to them would be "an entanglement." They do not want us to act as peacemakers. They simply look to us to back them unconditionally while they warn Japan off, and they are likely to say in effect: "If you are not with us, you are against us." It does not occur to them that we have not a shilling to spare for another war, and that the British taxpayer would be horrified at the mere thought of a war about the Pacific.

Japan's projects aim at conquest and will not bear discussion. The United States is absolutely right upon the issue. She stands for the open door, and so do we: but if Japan decides to shut the door six months hence neither of us can stop her.

Clearly the next move lies with Japan. Should she defy both the United States and Great Britain she will set in motion a war which will shake the world. Japan has the huge temptation of certain immediate advantages if she goes to war, and she may not be wise enough to restrain herself.

When Memory Fails Brain Cells Curl Up

The loss of memory, and the cause therefor, as well as some of the effects thereof, have long been a subject of great interest to medical men.

With more than 6,000 ex-service men in British asylums suffering some phase of lapsing memory, the subject has taken on new interest.

Dr. Bernard Hollander, well known London physician, discusses "What Happens When Your Memory Fails," in an able article.

BY B. HOLLANDER, M.D.

There is an increasing number of persons found wandering who can give no account of themselves. We also read of people who, after some great shock or head injury, or from some undiscovered cause, have forgotten whole periods of their lives and are totally unable to recall them.

These are extreme cases, but we are all forgetful at times, and experience difficulty in recollecting names, dates, or events. It may, therefore, be of interest to examine what really happens when we lose our memory.

Let me first of all explain that it is in the outer area, the so-called rind or cortex, of the brain, which consists of billions of micoscropic cells, that all our knowledge and experiences are registered. Nothing is forgotten; only the power of recalling varies. Each of these cells has a lot of small lateral branches which overlap the lateral branches of adjoining cells, as the branches of the trees do in a closely packed forest. It is through this overlapping that communication is established in every direction, and we can recall any event by an effort of the will, when conditions are normal.

When we get fatigued or depressed from anxiety, or suffer from shock, or the blood supply to the brain is poor, or the cells are undernourished, the outstanding branches curl up and lose contact with their neighbors, and no voluntary effort will then succeed in making us remember. The telephonic system of the cortex becomes disorganised.

What happens in every-day experience, for example, when we have forgotten a particular name, is that after we have given up the struggle and changed the subject of thought or conversation, and have thus given the affected part a rest, the branches recover, communication is re-established, and the name flashes into consciousness. That is also why we sometimes can remember indirectly—i. e., by a circuitous route, by recalling other circumstances connected with the event—when the direct line is out of order.

A severe concussion may shake the brain cells to such an extent as to throw whole groups of them out of gear, and an entire series of events, extending over days, months, or years, may get beyond recall. I have seen an officer after an explosion in a submarine boat, and another man who suffered concussion in a railway collision, who both on recovering consciousness, vehemently denied that they were married.

After a blow to the head, minute hemorrhage may occur, from which the patient can recover; sometimes, however, the hemorrhage is so severe as to destroy whole groups of cells, when no treatment whatsoever will replace them.

Loss of memory may be due to other than physical causes. Certain groups of cells may get isolated by constant absentmindedness, day-dreaming, and absorption in some specialised mental activity.

In childhood the brain cells are freshest, so the memories of that period cling to us throughout life; in old age the cells begin to show signs of wear; consequently the memory gets bad for recent impressions.

Medically, there are two ways of bringing back to memory forgotten events; one is by hypnotic suggestion, which is applied in purely functional cases, as after emotional disturbances or shock; the other is by galvanisation of the brain, which restores normal physical conditions after organic changes, the electric current supplying renewed energy to the brain cells and causing the lateral prolongations to form contact again with the remainder of the brain.

'The Dew Of Death' Deadliest War Gas

It is an interesting fact that the deadliest chemical for use in military operations was discovered by the Allies, though it was not ready for employment in the field when the armistice was signed. Of this substance details are given for the first time in a popular work by General Amos De Fries and Major C. J. West, both of the United States Army, in their admirable book, "Chemical Warfare," published by McGraw-Hill, London, England, which contains an exhaustive account of the whole history of gas warfare.

The chemical in question was called Lewisite, after Captain Lewis, of the American Army, its discoverer. Its technical name is "chlorovinyldichlorarsine," and it is a faintly yellow liquid, three times more dangerous than the terrible mustard gas.

Not only is it a vesicant (cause of burns) of about the same order as mustard gas, but the arsenic penetrates the skin of an animal, and three drops placed on the abdomen of a mouse are sufficient to kill within two or three hours. It is also a powerful respiratory irritant and causes violent sneezing. Its possible use in aeroplane bombs has led General De Fries to apply the term "The Dew of Death" to its use in this way.

The secret was communicated to the British chemical service, and "unfortunately," as the writer of this book states, it was released by them to the world, thereby making hostile Powers a valuable present.

The new poison gases have many peace applications. Cyanogen bromide is useful for killing rats and vermin in storehouses and is safe to use. Chloracetophenone would be valuable to the police, as it produces no permanent injury but causes "smarting and very profuse tears." With it, say the authors, "huge crowds can be set to weeping instantly, so that no man can see and no mob will continue once it has been blinded with irritating tears."

Diphenylaminechlorarsine which causes violent vomiting but not death, could be used for the protection of safes and strong rooms.

Africa's 12,000 Years Old Cliff Dwellers

Skeletons and weapons of a colony of cliff dwellers, believed to have lived more than 12,000 years ago, described as a pre-Bushman race—the earliest known race of man inhabiting South Africa—have been discovered by F. W. Fitzsimmons, Director of the Port Elizabeth Museum, during his investigations of the cliff dwelling overlooking the rocky shores of the Tzitzikama region, between Humansdorp and Knysna, Cape Colony, Africa.

The discoveries are declared to be of greater importance and antiquity than the fossil skull recently unearthed in Northern Rhodesia, and it is the opinion of Mr. Fitzsimmons, says the Rand Daily Mail, that his excavations prove that these cliff dwellers were antecedent to the primitive Bushmen.

"It is a point of great interest," he says, "that the cliff dwellers were not of stunted physical growth, but, according to their skeletons, big men and women."

The rock shelters are in the faces of the cliffs which overlook the sea, and it was in some instances necessary to cut a way up to them from the sea shore.

"I have obtained specimens of practically everything obtainable in these cliff dwellings," Mr. Fitzsimmons says, "including a number of human skeletons, bone chisels, awls, beads and food grinders. The cliff dwellers ate shell fish, dug pitfalls for animals, and their shelters were only accessible by perilous pathways, a slip from which would have been certain death.

"Until now they were erroneously termed Pygmy Bushmen, but I am able to prove that they were physically big and the ancestors of the Pygmies, who eventually became stunted because their forbears lived in these low-roofed caves."
